Title : Digital Methods for Learning Surgery

Preamble:

The use of the latest devices (Mobile/Laptops/Tablets) by Health Care Professional has transformed many aspects of clinical practice, Medical devices and Apps are already invaluable tools for HCP (Health care Professional). These medical devices and applications are currently being used without a thorough understanding of their associated risk and benefits, rigorous evaluation, validation and the development of best practice standards for Medical Apps are greatly needed to ensure a fundamental level of quality and safety when these tools are used. With the implementation of such teaching methods the main determinant of an Medical Device/Application value may ultimately be its ability to provide meaningful accurate and timely information and guidance to the end users in order to serve the vital purpose of improving patient outcome.

To teach the correct method of reading/ selecting the e-books, PDF, Medical Videos, Application based books to the Health care Professionals.

To teach the value based Video Conferencing Techniques in Health care setups.

Duration of the course : 15 hours.

Eligibility for Admission : Postgraduates, Undergraduates & Teaching staff of Dept.of General Surgery.

Medium of Instructions : English
