Editors Note

Greetings from the editorial team.

We are presenting here a brief account of action packed 2nd trimester of 2015. It was marked by visits of Eminent Personalities, Annual Conferences, 3rd Convocation, etc. The spacious 3rd floor added to the existing hospital was opened with state of art wards, ICUs, Modular Operation Theatres, Burns unit, Luxurious Special wards and started functioning. This, apart from boosting the image of the hospital and increased input, has enthused the working team towards better performance.

We welcome your inputs and suggestions.

Regards,

Dr. Tejaswini Vallabha
Chief editor

STUDENT WRITES...

Sitting under the evergreen tree of our Central Library, I see a newcomer, which reminds me of my eventful journey in this college. I remember the Orientation Day when we were introduced to our batchmates with eyes filled with dreams.

Then started our routine life with classes, dissection, practicals, tutorials. Those pricking of fingers for blood sample every physiology practical got tears in my eyes but now I feel that it was worth learning. The dissection of cadavers was totally a new experience.

The operation theaters were always interesting, though we never performed any surgery, but it always inspired me. The clinical posting in 2nd year exposed us to patients, I got to learn the language. The new multispeciality wing added a new dimension to my learning process. The professors have always been a great guide and inspired me through ups and downs of my career.

The most ecstatic part of college life is cultural fest, where we perform, get well dressed with beautiful colors, win prizes. It makes us euphoric and fills with all new energy. I should not forget to mention the sports meet joyful crowd to see inter batch competitions and friends cheering for each other.

The sleepless nights overnight hangover during exams, the vicious cycle of stress, pressure and exams were all part of our winter holidays, which we infamously call “Preparatory Leave”. The entire journey was a rollercoaster ride, but in the midst of everything I consider myself fortunate to experience such an enthralling feat.

When I look back to the good old days, I remember the late night birthday celebrations, movies with my buddies, the extreme trouble of keeping an eye open the next morning – makes me smile- makes me nostalgic.

Though the responsibility of being a doctor always stands out, makes me nervous. I feel that the things I learnt, to deal with bizarre consequences, have brought out a new myself from within and made me a complete human being.
