Students Writes...

The ultimate responsibility of the medical school is to train the students to be compassionate and competent medico, who ensures the health of the public. Amidst the crazy workload, the demand of the job, and the course, it is easy to forget that. However, with the extreme devotion to train the best of the best, I have never felt astray from the purpose.

It is very difficult to summarize the experience that I have had so far as the place offers so much every day. I hope to rinse the essence of my experience in words.

Due to an exceptionally well-framed wide array of integrated curricula with the centralized administrative framework, I have become accustomed to the structure that improves my knowledge and thoroughly judges one by competency. I found myself becoming more active in a variety of clinical settings after getting exposure to a wide spectrum of medical diseases. I had the opportunity to study general medicine here; the experience has enriched my existing bank of knowledge while also further blooming the love for the profession. The administration, which includes dean faculty, students, residents and administrative ex-officio members, all have been extremely supportive, always encouraging one to move forward in the toughest of times. I have found myself easily able to form close bonds with peers and faculty even during the difficult and demanding phases.

The journey of a medical student is like a bed of thorns and challenges are part of everyday life, but for me, it has become slightly easier to deal with them, thanks to a competent coach who has been able to assist me and guide me in order to achieve the desired level of objectives. The seminars, journal clubs, team-based and self-directed learning along with workshops have all added to this wholesome experience. But, recreation is necessary to maintain the level of productivity. The medical campus itself provides ample spaces where one can unwind. The campus oversees the panorama of the city life busting with energy. The lush greenery has been the source of comfort while everything around is whirled with chaos. Also, the central library provides a safe, comfortable and friendly environment that enables learning and advancement of knowledge while encouraging development.

Becoming a doctor is synonymous with lifelong learning and I am glad that I am pursuing this rich and eventful journey in BLDE DU Hospital.
