Student Writes...

A Journey through Medical School

In halls of white and sterile scent, Where knowledge reigns as king, The journey of a medical student begins, With hope and wonder in each thing.

The textbooks are thick and heavy, The lectures long and tough, But amid of all the toil, Lies the excitement that's enough.

From anatomy and physiology, To pathology and more, The mind is filled with knowledge, And the heart with passion's roar.

Amid the needles and the scalpels, The stethoscopes and charts, The students find their calling and nurture dreams in their hearts.

The patients, with their stories, Teach lessons far beyond, And the empathy and kindness learned, Are the treasures that abound.

For in this journey through medical school, The lessons learned are deep, And the experiences gained, Forever etched in memory to keep.

So, though the road is long and hard, And the challenges many, too, The journey through medical school, Is a priceless experience, that is true.
