“Beautiful Day to Save Lives”

Years flash before shut eyes
The signature scent of sterility
From blue scrubs and white lies
To the final test of my ability

Deafening silence surrounds me light bounces off the latex

I pace my count, up to three
And my hands fall to her apex

The things I thought I'd do this for Name, fame and filthy money

A business with a bustling door
Now flavorless dreams feel funny

She lies in the palm of my hand
An overcoming whelming panic
I watch as I aimlessly stand

At her lifeless porcelain ceramic

Hopeful eyes and Stayin' Alive
Hanging on to broken beeps

Her heart thumps back, I feel divine
Then let go as I weep

Wasn't the first, not nearly the end
But it'll never cease to daze me

A body we heal, a mind amend
A gift the good Gods gave me

I pull the curtain with a subtle smile
Every night bewitching and beyond
It's a beautiful day to save lives

And a beautiful place to belong

I catch myself in her brown eyes

As she embraces her newborn daughter
And think of the girl in the pink ties
Who dreamed to be a doctor
